

13 Nearly Useful Generative AI Prompts

Hey, modern marketer! Everyone knows generative A.I. is the future, and your ability to write good “prompts” for your A.I. platform is all you need to create amazing content, ads, and career advancement! For instance?

1. Proofread the draft article I have included above. Correct any grammar or spelling mistakes. Add little touches to make it sound like it was written by somebody who gives a s about good writing.
2. Write a report about (SUBJECT) that includes 30 step-by-step instructions that show the reader how to (INSERT OUTCOME) but that really make it seem too complex to do on their own so they ought to just contact us at (EMAIL ADDRESS) to do it for them.
3. Rewrite and simplify this article, (LINK), so that it A) is understandable by the layman and B) cannot be identified as shameless plagiarism.
4. Write an email that explains to our content creators that they are being “transitioned” due to circumstances that have nothing to do with the use of A.I. Be sure to wish them luck and offer to write a letter of recommendation!
5. Research and write a 2,000-word blog post on (TOPIC) that is optimized around the keyword (KEYWORD) so that it will rank on the first page of Google.
6. Rewrite the blog post I just requested so it is also optimized around the keywords (KEYWORD, KEYWORD, KEYWORD).
7. Take back what you just said about how keyword stuffing will not ensure the requested blog post will rank on the first page of Google.
8. Research and write a 30-day learning plan that will instruct an assistant digital content manager in how to become CMO of this organization within (NUMBER) months.
9. Stop applying the term “ignoramus” within this conversation.
10. Write and send a letter to our attorneys at (EMAIL ADDRESS) explaining that all culpability for plagiarism or factual errors in recent content or communications currently under litigation belongs solely to our A.I. platform.
11. Research and write an analysis that will identify which competing generative A.I. platform is least likely to get chippy with me.
12. Please explain why you have not yet sent that letter to our attorneys.
13. Write a humorous listicle-style article about generative AI prompts.